

State of Vermont Vermont Fire Academy CERTIFICATION RECIPROCITY APPLICATION

Eligibility for Reciprocity

A person may apply for reciprocal recognition of a fire service certification that has been issued by an entity other than the Vermont Fire Academy if the applicant is currently affiliated with a Vermont Fire Department or is applying to take a course or program from the Vermont Fire Academy that requires recognition of prerequisite certification(s).

A Vermont certification can only be issued for certification levels that are authorized by the Vermont Fire Service Training Council and the granting of reciprocity will not lead to the issuance of a Pro Board certificate. A Pro Board certificate can only be issued to an individual who has successfully passed the current certification exam for a given level.

Applications for Reciprocity

Reciprocity requests must be made using the approved Vermont Fire Academy Certification Reciprocity Application form. The Certification Reciprocity Application form must be signed by the applicant and the chief or sponsoring department delegate. It is the responsibility of the applicant to provide the necessary proof of certification with the application including copies of certificates and/or official training transcripts when required. Applications for reciprocity will be reviewed by the Vermont Fire Academy Chief of Training or his/her designee and a decision shall be issued within 30 days of receipt of a completed application.

Reciprocity for Certifications Earned Within the Current Certification Term

The certification term is generally one year. A Vermont certification shall be issued to anyone who has achieved an accredited certification within the current certification term and who meets any additional training requirements for certification as required by the Vermont Fire Service Training Council.

Reciprocity for Certification Earned Previous to the Current Certification Term

A Vermont certification shall be issued to anyone who has achieved an accredited certification who meets any additional training requirements for certification as required by the Vermont Fire Service Training Council. Applicants must provide proof of continued annual training relevant to their level of certification that is equal to or exceeds the minimum requirements for renewal of a Vermont certification at that same level.

An applicant who has an accredited certification as indicated above but does not have the proof of continued annual training equal to or exceeding the minimum requirements for renewal of a Vermont certification at that same level may have their certification recognized for course prerequisite purposes only.

An applicant who does not have an accredited certification as indicated above but has proof of previous training that is clearly compliant with an applicable standard may have that training recognized for course prerequisite purposes only. These requests shall be evaluated on a case-by-case basis when the certification level has been added by the Vermont Fire Service Training Council within the last three years and the training was delivered by a contractor when there was no accredited certification available in Vermont at the time that the certification was obtained.

Vermont Certification Through Reciprocity

Applicants who are granted Vermont certification through reciprocity shall be placed on the recertification roster of the sponsoring department. The expiration date of a Vermont certification that is achieved through reciprocity shall be the same as though the certification was initially issued by the Vermont Fire Academy. The recertification requirements for a Vermont Certification received through the reciprocity process shall be the same as that for certifications received through passing the certification exam for that level.
